Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, snuffes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y. The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

VALUE OF AN IDEA.

One Bright Young Man Got a High Price For His.

An elderly gentleman, whose appearance correctly indicated him to be a man of wealth, handed a young man a check a few afternoons ago in the lobby of an uptown hotel. Observing that it was drawn for $1,000, a friend remarked that the young man must have rendered some important service to the benevolent gentleman.

"He has," replied the latter. "He put $1,000,000 into my pocket."

"Why didn't he keep it himself?" asked the friend enviously, as such examples of generosity are rare.

"Because he could not use it. The $1,000 will be more available to him. I will explain, as neither of us was actuated by motives of generosity, but cold business."

"As you know, I am the president of a corporation that is one of the largest advertisers in the world, as we spend thousands—yes, hundreds of thousands—of dollars a year in letting the people know that our articles are just what they must have, whatever else they don't have."

"We believe in advertising, and this young man knows it and has profited accordingly. He came to me today, as we are utter strangers, and asked me if I would pay him $1,000 for an idea on advertising our goods. I did not try to beat him down to $100, a good figure for an idea, but promptly told him that I would gladly pay his price if upon communicating to me the idea I considered it worth what he demanded; otherwise I would pay him what I, and not he, considered it worth."

"To this he readily assented, and in an hour's talk he explained to me the brightest idea on advertising I have ever received out of thousands of suggestions. We will make over $1,000,000 profit inside of a year on increased sales and permanent business retained. So, you see, his price was cheap."

"Fortunes have been made in business by the advertising of a single suggestion in such a manner that the public see it out of the great mass of printed matter going through their hands, and this tide of advertisement flows so rapidly that there must be something above another which attracts public attention. 'This something' was what that bright young man gave to me, and I am very much obliged to him."—Washington Star.

Built From One Tree.

In 1853 the first Baptist service held at Santa Clara, Cal., was conducted under an oak tree. When the Baptist society decided to build a church, the site on which the tree stood was selected. This monster of the forest, which cast an acre of shade, was then cut down at a height of twenty-five feet, and the trunk was cut into lumber. The big stump was partially hollowed and allowed to stand as the church tower. A high steeple was erected on it, and the church was built from the lumber made from the giant oak. When the church was completed, 1,200 feet of lumber remained unused. The building is 30 feet wide by 70 feet deep.

What's In a Name?

Bobbie was wearing his first trousers and was as proud as a boy has the right to be under such circumstances. He felt himself a man indeed and was very anxious to be acknowledged as such. But his elders were unappreciative. Uncle Harry had poked fun at him in a quiet way, even going so far as to inquire what "those things" were. So Bobbie went to Aunt Helen for consolation.

"Why, Bobbie," she exclaimed when she caught sight of him, "how grand you look! I never saw you dressed like that before."

"I ain't dressed," retorted the boy indignantly. "Vese are pants."

Her Mood Changed.

A young man passing through a crowd in a great dry goods store found himself side by side with a timid looking little man and exactly behind a lady. A movement of the crowd forced the young man to step upon the hem of the lady's skirt. She turned quickly around, with a furious look, and was evidently about to address some fierce remark to him, when a change came over her face suddenly. "Oh, I beg your pardon, sir," she said. "I was going to get very angry. You see, I thought it was my husband!"

Tananarivo.

The American consul at Madagascar says, speaking of its eastern seaport: "Perhaps no city of this size in the world is so lavishly endowed with churches, cathedrals, monasteries, chapels, schools, hospitals, etc., as is Tananarivo. There is a school of manual labor, where every branch of manufacture is taught, and many handsome specimens of work are shown."

JUDGING COLORS.

It Is Not So Simple a Matter as One Would Imagine.

Most persons think they have a fair discriminating power in matching colors, but a little test will usually show that their power in that respect is woefully below the highest standards.

An expert in dyeing fabrics in a modern mill or factory requires first of all unusual powers of judging colors, and the keenness and accuracy of his eyes in this respect are something remarkable.

While most people can easily distinguish between pink, scarlet, cardinal and magenta when seen separately, it is quite a test to point them out accurately when mixed together in the dyehouse. But even this feat is small compared with the work of distinguishing the different delicate shades which are used for dyeing. In the dyehouse one must be able to discriminate accurately and quickly, for example, between a dyed color of 1 per cent and 1.1 per cent. Place these two dyes together, and not one in a thousand would see any difference between them unless he had been trained to judge colors. The difference is so delicate that even experts sometimes require the two shades together to make an accurate decision.

The power of judging colors is a matter of training the memory. The measurement of this color memory decides the man's actual worth to any dyeing establishment. It is a pretty serious and expensive matter to have dye experts make errors in matching colors, for thousands of yards of material may be dyed before the mistake is detected.

"One might think that this exacting work of matching and discriminating between colors would be hard on the eyes," explained a factory superintendent, "but just the reverse is the case. The eye grows in strength and keenness, and the powers of color memory become abnormally strong. If an expert had to deal entirely with one color or shade, his eyes would soon become weak, and he would lose all power of discrimination. But multitudes of colors presented to the eyes all the time keep them strong and healthy."

"Of course some of the shades are so much alike that it is almost as bad as gazing at one color, and it would be for the average eye, but the color expert gets a rest and change even in these delicate shades."—New York Times.

Woman's Sacrifice.

A tragedy in one act. Characters—Mrs. Jones, Miss Jones. Time—Today. Place—Before her mirror in her boudoir. Enter Mrs. Jones, crying.

Mrs.—My dear child, what is the matter?

Miss—Jack is going to make me a birthday present of a bracelet with nineteen diamonds set in it.

Mrs.—And are you crying because you are to have nineteen diamonds?

Miss—No, mamma, dear. I cry because I have lost five diamonds.

Mrs.—Child, explain yourself. Miss—Jack called and said he was going to give me the bracelet on my birthday, next week, and wanted to put a diamond in it for each year that I had lived. Then he asked me how many. It was a terrible struggle, mamma, dear, and I had to sacrifice five diamonds.

Mrs.—My thoughtful eldest born, you did well. A year of youth to a woman's credit is a gem of more value than a diamond.

A Selfish World.

George—No matter how things go, the poor always suffer. Jack—Yes, the nabobs who own railroads don't think anything of running over a poor man's horse.

"Yes, and the man who can afford to own a horse runs down the poor fellow on a bicycle."

"Just so. And the fellow on the bicycle runs down the poor chap who has to walk."

"That's it. And the man who walks stumbles against the poor cripple who goes on crutches."

"That's the way. And the cripple on crutches spends most of his time jamming his stick down on other people's corns. It's a sadly selfish world."—New York Weekly

Too Familiar.

An English judge had a wealthy brother who for a long time took a commanding position in the business interests of one of the big manufacturing towns. While the judge was seated on the bench of the court one day in the town where his brother's business was the latter appeared and in his bluff, fraternal way said:

"How are you, John? I have been summoned to act as grand juror."

Said the judge: "When I am on the bench, I am addressed as 'your lordship.'"

"Don't be a silly fool, John," said the business man.

"Fine Mr. Turner £20," said the judge, and he was forthwith fined.

COSTLY SMOKING.

High Prices Paid by Soldiers For a Whiff of Tobacco.

To barter a horse in exchange for a cigarette would appear a somewhat extravagant proceeding, yet such an incident took place in South Africa when an English soldier, having captured a steed unknown to his superior officers, exchanged the same for a Turkish cigarette worth perhaps a farthing. It must be remembered, however, that the soldier had not tasted tobacco for weeks and doubtless considered the exchange a perfectly fair bargain.

During the Franco-German war an officer paid a private soldier the sum of 20 marks (approximately $1) for a bundle of cigarettes, numbering ten in all. The officer, having exhausted his own scanty supply of smokes, perceived that a certain infantryman was about to extricate a cigarette from a small packet, and he immediately made the offer in question for the collection, which was accepted, not altogether with alacrity.

During the same campaign a bundle of fifty cigarettes was sold by a French lieutenant to a brother officer for the incredible sum of 1,000 francs ($40), and it is recorded, though with what truth the writer would not care to vouch, that the latter resold his "bargain" for nearly twice the sum to another officer.

Perhaps the largest sum on record ever paid for a cigarette was the amount of £250. It issued from the valise of Napoleon III. and was sold at auction as a curiosity, the money raised being devoted to the relief of sufferers from the Franco-German war.—London Tit-Bits.

Intelligible Announcement.

An American woman who understands Italian, but has not learned to comprehend Italianized English, had at a hotel in Florence an experience which she relates with glee.

She had asked that a carriage might be ready for her at a certain hour. She waited in the parlor for it to be announced, and when the time had passed she made complaint that her request had not been regarded.

"But, madam, I send up a boy where you and the other madam were sitting ten minutes ago and command him to announce your equipage," said the clerk.

"A boy said something in the doorway," said the lady doubtfully, "but as he spoke in a language unknown to me and did not seem to be addressing me I paid no attention to him."

The boy, being summoned, gazed with brown, reproachful eyes at the lady.

"But I speak America," he said plaintively. "I bow my head and say fast, very fast, 'M'darm, m'darm, c'ridge, c'ridge, redee, redee, and make my depart.'"

Get a True Focus.

A habit of looking at things from a distorted angle, of focusing the vision on things that depress and suggest unhappiness and misery, is a destroyer of happiness and success. A man who goes about with a funeral face, thinking "hard times," fearing "dull seasons," disaster, panic and failure, wherever his interests center, is never a happy man, rarely a successful one.

Pessimism is a destructive force in men's lives just as optimism is a constructive agency.—Success.

A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give her child.

"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquilizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshment and vigor.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens of Mills, Northumberland County, Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been born from birth and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1000 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

SONOMA, MAY 24, 1902.

THE GRAND CANYON OF ARIZONA.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado river in Arizona was visited by the members of the California Press Association to the number of sixty-six last week. The editorial party left San Francisco for their annual outing on Monday evening, returning last Saturday night.

The trip was made over the Santa Fe road in three palace sleeping cars to which was attached a dining car. The Santa Fe has extended this spur of its railway system to the very rim of the Grand Canyon ninety miles beyond Williams, Arizona. The railway service of the Santa Fe was perfection itself, while the dining room service of the company and the Harvey eating houses along the line of travel were all that could be desired by the most exacting epicure.

To describe the Grand Canyon and do it justice is one of the impossibilities. Suffice it to say, it is even greater than any one of the "seven wonders of the world" and far more comprehensive. Its immensity is awe-inspiring and stupendous. The erosion of thousands, aye millions, of years has transformed what was once in the dim past a mesa into a gigantic sink in the bowels of the earth over 6000 feet in depth, thirteen miles wide in some places and hundreds of miles in length. From this sink in the earth arise thousands of feet above the muddy, turbulent and seething waters of the Colorado river, pillars, monuments, towers, arches, monoliths, battlements, arches, castles, walls of masonry and caves, the depth of which will never be known owing to their inaccessibility. These grim and silent monuments of the slow but destructive erosive forces of nature, by some strange freak, rise in their mightiness and tower heavenward in all the colors of the rainbow and lend an enchantment to the view that it is impossible to describe with the pen. Even the brush of a master painter could not do this coloring of nature justice.

The wear and tear of the elements has given us the Grand Canyon with all its magnificence. The crumbling away process, or erosion, has been accomplished by the rains, snows and blizzards of thousands of centuries and not by volcanic action. The primitive man of Arizona, unlike the inflated inhabitants of modern Martinique, had time a plenty to change his habitation and escape this destructive force of nature, else he must have been a very slow individual indeed.

As one gazes across and up and down the mighty chasm and views the deep gorges and towering monuments, mute witnesses of the erosion of time, he will realize with greater force than he ever did in his life how very old and mysterious must be this world of ours.

It looks as if Sonoma were under a regime of the Dark Ages. "Let the world grow dark, That the extinguish'd sun may hide thy shame."—Aaron Hill.

"LANTERNS were good enough for our father's, so what's the use of electric light." That's the sentiment of one of our City Trustees.

PUBLIC spirit is the mainspring of success in any community, while selfishness is a clog on the wheels of enterprise. If the people of a locality will strive to get together rather than away from one another the material interests of every one will be advanced in the end.

YOUR LAST CHANCE.

Our special edition will soon be out. We will close it this week. So if there is any one desirous of having his place written up or photographed he should call on us at once. This will be the last opportunity.

To those wishing to sell, this edition will be of the greatest benefit. We have a "For Sale" column that will reach the eye of thousands of people looking for property in California. This is just the time and just the place for you to advertise your farm. The edition will prove of incalculable value to every one. It has for its object the bringing of good substantial people to our valley—people who will come here and invest their capital and interest themselves in our welfare. It will bring new life to us and rejuvenate things in general.

Attractive advertising is the only means by which we can make ourselves known, and every man, woman and child in Sonoma should be interested in this movement and do all they can to make it a big success. If you have a nice place let the Eastern people know it. If you haven't a nice place send out as many copies as you can just to show what other people have and what kind of a valley you live in.

The edition is to be a very creditable one. Every bit of it is to be original and it will be of great interest to people at home as well as abroad.

HOW WOMEN BUY SOAP.

A New York Druggist's Experience With That City's Fair Sex. "It's hardly any use at all," said the druggist to man wearily, "to deal in good soaps. Nobody buys them. Now, you take any family in New York, and who buys the soaps for it? The men? Not that anybody knows of. It's the women. And what do women know about soaps? Nothing.

"A woman comes in here and asks for soap; not any particular kind of soap—just soap. If you know anything at all about your business, you get out the prettiest box you've got in the house, all over gilt lettering and gimcracks, and hand it to her. She takes it and looks at the box and then at the color of the paper around the soap, selects the color she likes best—it's usually lavender, though some prefer pink and a very few blue—puts a sample cake to her nose and smells it. If the perfume happens to please her, along with the color of the paper and the box, she says without more ado: 'I'll take a dozen boxes of that. Send them up.' And away she goes.

"The soap may be composed of most any old thing. It doesn't matter. Not a word does she say of its purity or of its composition; only of its perfume and the color of the paper that's wrapped around it, as I say.

"Once in a blue moon some man, generally a confirmed old bachelor, who hasn't any woman around to buy his soaps for him, will come in and ask for soap. When you hand him out a cake, he holds it in his hand awhile, never smelling it—men seldom if ever care for the perfume of a soap—then asks what it is made of and if it is pure. If you convince him of the last fact, you make your sale, and that's the difference between the men and the women."—New York Times.

A Successful Ruse. A couple of thirsty fellows who had been loafing all the forenoon on the quays at Stockholm were struck with a brilliant idea. They borrowed an old brandy keg and half filled it with water. Then one of them slung it on his shoulder and took it to the nearest spirit vault, where he stated that he had been sent by one of the skippers in port to have the keg filled with brandy.

"The captain is sorry he only got it half full yesterday and thinks it would be better to have it filled to the top."

"The keg was accordingly held under the tap till it was full, and the fellow hoisted it on his shoulder, but as he was about to walk off with it he was stopped by the clerk, who demanded payment for the spirits.

AFTER GRIP WHAT?

The Perilous Period Which Follows an Attack of this Mysterious Malady.

Grip is bad enough with its aching bones, inflamed eyes, painful back, and fever. But its after effects are perhaps even more to be dreaded than the misery attendant on an attack of the disease itself. The person who comes safely through an attack of grip, man, woman, or child, is left in a condition of peculiar debility and prostration from which it is difficult to rally. A slight cold or cough may find speedy termination in lung disease. Ordinary exposure results in pneumonia. The disease seems to deplete the vitality, undermine the strength, and affect the balance of the mind. It is one of the sad experiences of the grip, that the convalescent supposed to be rallying well, has been found in a condition of complete collapse.

As a result of the grip the lungs, and other organs of respiration seem peculiarly liable to be affected and consumption may easily be the after consequence of the malady. It needs no argument therefore to urge the building up of the system weakened by grip to enable it to resist and throw off these sequel diseases which so frequently prove fatal.

In actual test Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved itself peculiarly valuable not only in the quick cure of the disease but also in rebuilding the body which grip has undermined and in curing diseases which are prone to fasten on the enfeebled system. It strengthens the stomach, heals the lungs, and purifies the blood. It puts the whole body on a plane of sound and vigorous health.

A VICTIM OF GRIP.

"Two years ago this month I had an attack of grip which left my throat and lungs in bad condition," writes Mrs. M. E. Stewart, of Centerville, Chickasaw Nation, Ind. Ter. "The doctor said I had disease of the bronchial tubes, but confessed to my husband (unknown to me), that I had consumption in the first stage and could never be cured; but, thanks to God and to Dr. Pierce, to-day I feel well, and am better now than I have been for many years. I can do as much work now as any woman of my age, which is forty-seven. One of my neighbor women advised me to get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, so I sent and got it, and then I was not satisfied with it alone, hardly believing it would cure me, so I wrote to Dr. Pierce and gave him my symptoms. He replied that I had catarrh of the head, extending to my lungs, and told what would cure me. I took his advice—never neglected it for anything. I have taken seventeen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' eight vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and ten packages of Dr.

Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I do not regret that I spent the money paid for the medicine. I have gained twenty-four pounds. Indeed Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonders for me. It is no use for me to try to tell my feelings. It would take time and space, but I was a skeleton and so poor and so down-hearted I could not look at one of my little ones without shedding tears, thinking that they would soon be left without a mother."

HOW STRENGTH IS RESTORED.

What makes me strong? Ask yourself that question and you will find that the answer will be, I am made strong by food. How does food make us strong? By passing through the processes of digestion and being converted into nutrition, which, in the form of blood, nourishes the body. So that while blood is the life of the body, food is the life of the blood.

Every red vein and artery of the body leads like a scarlet clue back to the stomach. If the body is weak, the stomach is weak, and we must look to the stomach first for the cause of weakness, and then to the blood. The same result of physical weakness will follow the opening of an artery, or starvation. You may bleed to death or starve to death. This is so well understood in medical practice that the first consideration of the physician in investigating disease is the condition of the stomach. If the stomach is weak the body can't be strong. If the stomach is weak, that weakness will surely find an echo in some other organ dependent on the stomach for its nutrition—such as heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc. If you starve a mother, you starve the child at her breast. If you starve the child at her breast, you starve the organs it feeds. But starvation of the body can be accomplished even where food is plentifully supplied, because if the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased, then the food will not be converted into nutrition or only partly so, and the body inadequately nourished will begin to grow weak. The first attempt, then, in dealing with a weak body is to nourish it into strength. The general method of this attempt is to try and bring the food down to the level of the weak stomach. This is done by the use of prepared foods, cod liver oil, and the emulsions. But this doesn't cure the disease of the stomach or put the organs of nutrition into a condition to build up the body.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery deals directly with the stomach and blood. It seeks to bring the stomach up to the level of strong, healthful food, when this is done the body gains in strength, puts on flesh, throws off disease, and enters on a new life. That these results follow the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' is proved by the testimony of thousands of weak, rundown, men and women and by their cure, by the use of 'Discovery,' of diseases of lungs, heart, kidneys, liver, etc., which originated in the disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition.

"Three years ago I had the grip," writes Mrs. T. H. Linney, of Gravel Switch, Marion Co., Ky. "It settled on my lungs, and the doctor said I had consumption. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am thankful to say I am entirely well. Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is strictly private and confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

Death of M. F. Turley's Aged Father.

Michael Turley, father of M. F. Turley of this place, died at his home in Rockford, Ill., April 29th, at the advanced age of 85 years. Deceased leaves a widow, three grown sons and a married daughter. The Rockford Morning Star, in commenting on the death of deceased, says:

"Mr. Turley was born in County Roscommon, Ireland, December 11, 1815. He lived on his native soil until 1840, in which year he was married to Ann Watson. Soon after their marriage he brought his bride to the United States and in 1853 they came to Winnebago county. They have resided here ever since, with the exception of four years spent in Ogle county.

"Mr. Turley followed the occupation of farming. He retired seventeen years ago and since that time had lived in the city.

"Mr. and Mrs. Turley journeyed along life's pathway for 62 years. They were a well-mated couple, lovers to the day of their separation by the hand of death. The blow is a sad one to the widow, who is 90 years of age. Mr. Turley had many acquaintances, especially among the old citizens, and they held him in the highest esteem."

THE VINEYARDS.

Prospects for a Big Grape

Crop in Sonoma Valley

Never Looked Better.

The vineyards of the Sonoma Valley never looked more promising the latter part of May than this season. The shoots on many of the vines are eighteen inches in length and the bunches of young grapes are large and thrifty looking in appearance. So far the vineyards have escaped injury from frost and the season is now so far advanced that little or no fear of damage to the grape crop from that cause is apprehended by vineyardists. It is true the area devoted to grapes is not what it used to be in this or any other section of the State, but for all that, both the winegrower and wine-maker will have cause to rejoice, as a big crop of wine grapes on the lessened area will make over-production an impossibility this season. The wine-cellars are almost depleted and in consequence grapes ought to command a good price when the vintage season of 1902 rolls around.

Big Fruit Crop.

Not for four years has the fruit crop in this valley been so promising. That the yield of cherries, apricots, prunes, apples, peaches and pears will be far above the average does not now admit of a possibility of a doubt. While the orchards of the Santa Clara Valley and other heavy fruit-producing sections of the State have been nipped by frost and their yield curtailed Sonoma Valley has entirely escaped a cool reception from this most dreaded spring visitor. With any thing like fair prices for fruit this season prosperous times are ahead for our fruit-raisers.

Improvements at Agua Caliente.

Mr. Albert Geisselman of Agua Caliente was in town Monday. His new saloon, which is located on the opposite side of the road from the old one, will shortly be completed. It will be known as "The Arbour." Mr. Geisselman is also the store-keeper and Postmaster at Agua Caliente. He bought out Morris Zoberber six or eight months ago and is doing a very good business. He invites you to drop in and see him when passing that way.

Reunion and Banquet.

Those who attended from Vallejo of the Moon Chapter of this place were Dr. and Mrs. Rich, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hocker, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hotz, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Harris, Mrs. A. McHarvey, Miss Alice Humphreys and Miss Annie Pemberton.

Meeting of High School Trustees.

An adjourned meeting of the High School Trustees will be held to-day (Saturday) at 3 p. m. The meeting will be held for the purpose of making arrangements for the graduating exercises of the class of '02, which will be held next month.

A Modern Distillery.

Geo. Engler, among other improvements being made on his fine farm, is putting in a modern distillery to replace the old one. It will be supplied with the latest labor-saving devices. The machinery is being put in place under the superintendency of Max Levy of San Francisco.

A Temblor.

A slight shock of earthquake was experienced in this place at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. The temblor, although slight, caused considerable alarm owing to the recent seismic disturbances in Mexico, Central America and the East Indies.

PASSING OF A

PIONEER WOMAN.

Mrs. Nathanson, Who Came

Here in 1852, at Rest.

One by one the pioneer men and women of Sonoma are passing away. In a few years more all will have passed to that "bourne from which no traveler ever returns." It is our painful duty to record in these columns this week the death of Mrs. Dora L. Nathanson, who lived near this place continuously for over thirty-five years. She died at the home of her daughter in San Francisco on Saturday last at the advanced age of 78 years.

Mrs. Nathanson was the widow of the late M. M. Nathanson, who came here in 1852 and engaged in merchandising. She was the mother of Arthur E. Nathanson, the well known attorney of San Francisco, J. C. Nathanson of Santa Rosa, and five other grown sons and daughters residing in the metropolis.

For many years the family lived on their farm two miles east of Sonoma, and Nathanson's creek which runs through the town was named after the head of the family. Twelve or fourteen years ago the farm, which is now the property of Mr. Malini, was sold and the Nathansons removed to San Francisco, where the husband died eight years ago.

Mrs. Nathanson was born in Germany and came direct from that country to Sonoma just fifty years ago this spring.

WASHINGTON'S COACH.

Fifteen Miles of Driving on Manhattan Island.

George Washington, when he was president of the United States, rode in a coach drawn by six horses. This coach was made in England, and it arrived in New York in 1789. The body and wheels were of a cream color, with gilt relief, and parts of the sides and fronts were shaded by green Venetian blinds. Upon each of the four panels was a picture emblematic of one of the four seasons. In January, 1785, congress met in Federal hall, at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, and New York city was the national capital for five years.

Washington was here inaugurated as president April 30, 1789. Manhattan Island then presented one of the most beautiful drives in the world, and Washington frequently made the fourteen mile circuit in his coach. This drive led up to what is now the Bowery and Third avenue, then called the Boston road, across the upper part of the island and down the Bloomingdale road, now famous as Broadway. The view took in the prosperous farms, elegant country seats and broad stretches of living water. In the city the president was usually content with four horses, but when he started on the long drive from Mount Vernon six horses pranced in front of the coach.

Fifteen years after the death of General Washington this coach became the property of Bishop Mead of Virginia. Our first president was a good horseman, and he was none the less devoted to the interests of the people because he rode in state. Should he revisit the scenes of his former glory he would find it difficult to trace the old fourteen-mile drive, and he would meet in Central park and on the roads beyond four-in-hands that would make him turn green with envy. Manhattan has radically changed since the first day of the republic.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Volta's Discoveries.

Volta, an Italian, made the discovery that two or more different metals are necessary in the production of electricity. He constructed the "battery" or pile of silver and zinc, with several layers of moistened paper between them, and with this simple experiment he produced all the same effects of electricity and currents as powerful as electricity produced by friction of glass and sulphur or by amber. This is the origin of what was known as the "voltaic pile," which was improved by experimenting with other substances and by Volta himself.

Instead of the two pieces of metal and moistened paper he placed metal ships in cups of water and produced grand results. Very little improvement has been made in the voltaic pile, and today it is little changed from its first invention.

Obedient Orders.

Johnny was chopping wood one morning, and every once in awhile he would put a piece of cake in his mouth. His father saw that this retarded his progress, and he wanted the wood chopped as soon as possible. So he kindly told Johnny that he could not eat and work at the same time.

Going out some time later, the father saw the hatchet lying on the ground and Johnny eating to his heart's content.

"What do you mean by doing this?" asked the father.

"I'm only following your orders, pa," replied Johnny. "You said I couldn't eat and work at the same time."—Philadelphia North American.

Why, Indeed?

"Why does a dog run sideways or diagonally?" inquired the purchaser of a fine black Newfoundland pup of a dog fancier the other day. "Well, sir, that's a question I've been asked frequently, and after some investigation I have concluded the reason is that the animal has been brought up that way. Why does a chicken roost on one foot, or an owl keep its eyes wide open all night long, or a rooster crows vigorously at the break of early dawn, or a pig run homeward with straw in its mouth before approaching rain? These are questions that are as difficult to solve as some of the astronomical problems."

Laughing Plants.

Have you ever heard of the laughing plant? It gets its name from the intoxicating property of its seed. It grows in Arabia, a bush of moderate size with yellow flowers, each producing a pod of black beans, which are ground and the powder taken. Its effect is like that of "laughing gas," causing the very soberest man to caper, laugh and shout for nearly an hour until he is thoroughly exhausted and falls asleep. On awakening he seems to have no recollection of his previous antics. This frivolous plant has not yet been classified by botanists.
